The GST of the registered GST Account holder to be entered in the system as a Standing Instruction at the time of filing of Return of Income under CGST. What is GST registration number? A GST Registration Number (GSTR No) can be used to track the GST Registrations. This number is to be given by the GST officials when an GST is registered. GST Registration Number can be generated by the taxman on the basis of one of the following criteria: It may be the GST Serial Number issued by the tax authorities (GSTIN, PAN etc.) It may be the Company Serial Number of the GST registered entity It may be any other unique identifying number which shall be assigned by the tax authorities and the taxman shall be responsible to generate the same. The reason of generating it is to be able to link the GSTR No with the other unique identification numbers of the taxman. GST Reversal A person has the right to file an appeal against the rejection of any of his/her return or objection under the GST. The appellant has to file an appeal with the Department of CGST, Government of India, if he/she feels that the rejection has been made on the basis of a false, erroneous or unjust reason, on or before the expiry of 90 days of the rejection. If the appellant has any other valid reason, he/she can file the appeal within the period of 30 days from the date of the rejection of the same. If an appellant has not registered in the system before filing the appeal, then he/she can upload the GST Registration Number on the system by logging in, or he/she can send the same through mail to the department. Process of registration Registering for GST is not different from registering for any other Central Excise or service tax. The taxpayer must complete the registration process by filling in the forms as applicable to that particular product. A taxpayer is also required to fill up the e-form (GSTR-1) and the return form (GSTR-2) in the prescribed formats. After filling up the required details in the forms, the taxpayer must attach one or more documents. A document that is required to be attached for a particular tax return need not be attached to another tax return. The documents that are required to be attached, for a particular tax 82157476af
